

PUGILISM Carter in Match Set for

PICKING WINNERS UNCERTAIN, BUT ARNOLD K, MAY WIN TO-DAY

W. B. Gates Looks Well at the Union Track and Should Repeat His Recent Victory-Pique May Beat The Doctress in Opening Event at Fair Grounds, While Malster Seems Best in the fields presented on the Fair Grounds card makes the matter more difficult.

If any one candidate must be chosen as the best wagering chance of the day. Arnold K. seems entitled to that position. He beat Pretension over a heavy track so handily last Friday, coming with a nicely timed rush, that it appears as if he should win from the lot opposing him

Barney Dreyfus did nothing in his start here, but won a nice race at Little Rock. He may beat out Cabon to-day. Ingolthrift ran a fair race or two at Little Rock, but his showing in the mud here has not been such as to make him seem a good betting chance.

Maister likes mud, was a good second

a good betting chance.

Maister likes mud, was a good second to Frank Bell his last out and a handy winner before that, and should beat Harmakis to-day, regardless of the form the latter has been showing. Kindred's well-known fondness for mud would be a strong card if the Kingston horse were known to be in his best form. Even with this somewhat uncertain, he looks well enough for third.

Velos and Broodler seem to have the fifth race between them. Each won his last race. Velos showed good speed in the mud, led all the way in her last race, but should have been second to South Breeze, instead of in front of her. Broodler led all the way in his last two outs. Both entries started against the same class field. Broodler has five pounds off his last race, Velos one pound on. Simply on the apparent merit of their respective performences, however, it looks as if velos should have first choice.

In her last race, Lovable ran such a good second to Echodale that she seems best to-day, the more especially as she has 6 pounds off to-day. Blue Blaze was a good second to Pyrrho on his last start, but Lynch and D'Arcy seem best in the remainder of the field.

One More ran a great race his last out, and the entire character of the field is such as to make this event appear like something of a toss-up, with Lovable having the best of the chances.

Echodale falled to come up to expectations in the last race, yesterday, but he may do better to-day. His chances so clearly lie in this sort of going that he will probably continue to be started, if he can mand it, while the track is soft. Four Leaf C. and Knowledge seem next best.

In the first race, The Doctress seems to be second best to Piqua. The latter finished one length behind The Doctress in their last start. Pique has four pounds off that weight to-day, while The Doctress in their last start. Pique has four pounds off that weight to-day, while The Doctress in their last start. Pique has four pounds off that weight to-day, while The Doctress carries the same total. Pique was

Dr. BOHANNAN

At the Fair Grounds.

Picking winners on the track likely to prevail at the Fair Grounds to-day is an Union Park to-day will be between sloppy and heavy. Yesterday it was sloppy in between places. The spots and heavy in other places. The conditions, however, appear favorable to the class of horses entered in six well-rounded fields, winners in which will like-ly be much harder to pick than yesterday, when class stood out strongly.

Captain Rice, who, during the nine day of the meeting at the Carmody track, has tucked down over $1,000 in purses in his tucked down over $1,000 in purses in his inside pecket, will likely add more to his bank roll to-day, as he has two horses entered which seem to have a smart chance of being first part the wire.

Unless W. B. Gates cools off, the big bay should annex the Owners' Handicap, hie is in light, but in this race it makes little difference, as aff the horses are light, with as good a boy as can make the weight. Burton will likely ride Gates again to-day, and if the horse repeats his performance of yesterday, all Burton will have to do will be to keep his seat and hold him stendy. Palm Reader, Ducilist, C. B. Campbell and Macbeth are in the race, but one can seent Gates afar as the winner.

Beyong all question, Somenos is the class of the third race, although he has not won a race at the track and will lug 121 pounds. Hilarity is in with 129 pounds and Lenox will carry 119. Figuring the weight Somenos should win. Poor Boy, with 190, considering the splendid race he ran last Saturday, finishing second to Miss Gould, should be right there. He will probably be Somenos's only serious opposition.

Miss Gould should be sweet money in the fifth, but her price, will likely be so short that he who is looking for long margin on small investment will not play the mare.

Prince of Endurance has no license to beat her. Allyar, shorn of a kip of weight of his last race, will likely be a contender, but Miss Gould should shake him in the finish.

Varner has been running honest and consistent races. In the mile and a huif inside pocket, will likely add more to his but Miss Gould should shake him in the finish.

Varner has been running honest and consistent races. In the mile and a half hurdle last Saturday, Varner and Gould were over the last jump like a pair of hounds before being freed from the slips. Varner recovered quickly and was off for the wire half a length ahead. Gould, under vigorous flogging, managed to win. To-day the route is a quarter of a mile shorter and there is a difference of six pounds of weight in favor of Varner. The Rice horse should win.

Considering the good races Star Cotton has run at the track and his finish in a high-class field Saturday, he should win the first race. It is his distance and he takes well to the going. It looks like a three-horse race, throwing in Eliza Dillon and Satin Coat.

J. JONES RODE FOUR WINNERS. Talent Had Good Day at Oakland After Getting Off Badly.

Rosetint Made All the Running, but Tired in the Stretch.

New York, April 25.-Before one of the largest crowds that ever passed through the gates of the Metropolitan Jockey Club, F. R. Doctor's Rostand, with Phillips in the saddle, won the Excelsior Handicap, one mile and a sixteenth, at Jamalea to-day, with P. S. P. Randolph's Red Knight second and W. L. Oliver's Lord Badge third. The time-1:45 3-5-1s new record for the track. The best previous time was made by the late William C. Whitney's Blackstock last year. Oarsman, the favorite in the race, finished

C. Whitney's Blackstock last year. Oarsman, the favorite in the race, finished fourth.

Out of the original fifteen starters, four were scratched and Sheriff Bell was added, making twelve to face the starter. The start was a poor one, as Buttons was practically left at the post. Burns, on Rosetint, at once sent his mount to the front, and, making the paddock turn, was a length ir front of Red Knight, with Major Daingerfield third, a head away. Around into the backstretch the field raced, with the positions remaining almost unchanged. Meanwhile Phillips, on Rostand, was laboring hard to get out of the pocket in which he had run while making the turn into the backstretch.

Passing the half-mile pole, he was fifth and going easily. Rounding the far turn, Rosetint was still leading, but Fuller, on the favorite, Oarsman, began to make his run, and at the head of the stretch was catching the fast tiring filly, but, just as a great shout went up that Oarsman would win, Phillips brought Rostand up with a rush in a driving finish and won by one length from Red Knight, who, in turn, was a head in front of Lord Badge.

ECHODALE BEATEN IN SLOPPY GOING

Crist's Mudder Succumbed to Barkelmore and Mollie T. in Last Event-Shandy's Bad Race.

Sloppy going, gloomy weather and de pressing surroundings generally character-ized racing at the Fair Grounds yesterday, a crowd of about 1.200 shivering regulars emphasized the loneliness of the big grand stand. At that, the game itself was reas-onably formful, Echodale and Tristan Shandy, however, putting up races which seemed short of their ability.

Both were hot favorites in their respec-tive races. Echodale was held at 3 to 5 and looked like a good bet at that price He was off nicely and was held in second place instead of being permitted to go to the front as usual, but moved up at the head of the stretch and looked like a win

Then Barkelmore came on the outside and passed him easily. Echodale stumbled around in the clay next the rail, which has proved the downfall of many a good horse and passed him easily. Echodale stumbled around in the clay next the rail, which has proved the downfall of many a good horse to date, and Molie T. beat him out for the place. Echodale was flogged vigorously the last quarter mile, but failed to respond in his usual style.

Good explanations may be advanced for this race. But no excuse can be offered for Tristan Shandy in the second. Held at the post of favoritism, his price fluctuating from even money to 6 to 5, he seemed like a really good thing in this event.

Raynor rode him in a manner which resulted in his being called into the stand. The boy may not have been at fauit, but if the betting public is worthy of the faintest consideration it appears as if the gelding's race should be questioned.

Raynor stated to Judge Murphy that Bridewell on Hen Mac bumped into Tristan Shandy at the quarter. He claimed that Tristan immediately sulked and refused to extend himself. Shandy was sold to Ed Trotter in the paddock immediately before the race and Trainer Durham stated that the gelding had a habit of sulking if bumped ih a race. Shandy finished well back in the bunch.

In the opening race, Costigan, from the Schreiber stable, got off well, stayed in front and won handliy, Little Harry struggled along fairly well in the slussh and got second place, while Joe Kelley was third by a good margin.

In the third race, the second 2-year-old event on the card. Chancy was favorite at 9 to 10. He was slightly bumped at one stage by Sonya, or rather, seemed to be slightly interfered with at the head of the stretch. This did not affect the result, however, as Sonya was running easily out in front and lasted until the final struggle when Uncle Charley, from the Schorr stable, drew steadily ahead and won easily. The Schorr youngster was as good as 16 to 1 in the betting at one stage.

Mauser simply galolped over his field in the fourth race. Sambo, The Republic's selection for this event, was withdrawn. Jack Young came strongly at the end and beat out South Breeze by a little matt

NOTE OF THE QUARTER STRETCH.

Mud of Yesterday Interfered With L. might be made by the local Western Jockey Club tracks and that the Fair Grounds might continue to race instead Jockey L. Wilson was another suffere from the mud yesterday. The boy was so badly plastered over the face with the slush thrown up by the field in the last slush thrown up by the field in the last race that he had to be led from his horse back to the baddock when the race was run. Both eyes were filled with mud and he could not rub them clear.

Jockey Cocolo, who was hit by a clod of mud while exercising a horse last week, with the result that he received an impressive looking pair of black eyes, was back in the saddle yesterday, entirely recovered from his mishap.

The mud caused numerous scratches on the card. Sambo, selected by The Republic as the most likely bet on yesterday's card, was withgrawn on account of the heavy going. Animos, also selected by The Republic was withdrawn from the third race. Six entries were scratched from the second race and seven from the last race.

Ed Trotter purchased Tristan Shandy in the paddock immediately before the second race yesterday, but the gelding ran in the colors of L O. Appleby, his former in the colors of L. O. Appleby, his former owner. Shandy started off well enough, but suddenly dropped back at the stable turn. Raynor was called into the stand, and his explanation that the horse quit when Ben Mac bumped into him was accepted. The former trainer of Shandy stated that the gelding had a habit of sulking if jostled or interfered with in a race.

"Talking about the hoodee barn, from which Echodale won Saturday and from which Echodale won Saturday and from which he lost yesterday, after seeming to have the race won at the head of the strotch, makes me think of a hard-luck story I can recall from the same place," said Ed Mockier yesterday.

"It was about the closest miss for a good purse I ever saw, and about the hardest case of luck for a man with the best horse. It was back about 1895, when Prime Minister and Lobengula started in the day's feature, with a good purse as the stake. Dan Stickney had Prime Minister then, and the horse was one of the best on the track. Green Morris owned Lobengula, a fair enough horse, but one who seemed to have only a chance to run second to Prime Minister.

sort of a finish. Stickney thought his borse had won, but the judges declared B a dead heat.

"He was asked if he would split the purse or run it off. He answered rather shortly that he would split. Morris knew that Lobenguis was good for another race and that Frime Minister was not, however, so, he declined to split. By the rules of racing either owner in a dead heat can refuse to divide the meney and insist upon a run-off.

"Stickney was afraid to start his horse again, but the judges ordered him to do so. He became involved in rather a personal argument and refused flatfooted. Lobenguia was thereupon ordered to gainlop around the course and Stickney was ordered from the track with his stable.

"Although Stickney had the best horse, his Nemesis followed him from that barn. No horse since that time came so near to winning until Echodale galloped home Saturday."

 She got off well in motion and ran a 'lucky race.

Jim Ferrin showed a remarkable lack of speed against previous performances.

In his present condition Captain Rice's W. B. Gates is a stake horse. The aged runner at Union Park yesterday won the feature and made a show of his field, although he had little to beat, aside from Erbe. Gates is entered again to-day in the Owners' Handicap against an inferior field, and unless he shows another remarkable reversal of form, should win easily. Paul Whaley was another good thing if However, he was by far the best, and in the field which he outclassed speculators should have reaped handsomely on the race, and it was reported that they did.

A few who like to take a chance, bet on Brotherhood to win at 4 to 1. The latter, after getting off nicely, did some pretty front running, but could not last and quit in the stretch. Felix Bard showed up pretty well until the last fifty yards, when he was outrun by Punctual, who closed with a rush.

The scratching of Palm Reader in the first race left the way open to St. Noel, and the way the colt romped home was a joke. Lillanette was much the best of the others.

After several futile trials, Yo San won a race. After cutting up at the post, the Rudolph filly broke well in motion, along with Tom Collins. She had the latter coppered before they reached the stretch. Jim Ferrin, a heavily played favorita, sot away with the bunch, but did not show the speed that was expected of him.

The superior rate given Bearmanner by McKinney in the fifth beat Golden Flower, a decidedly heavily played favorite. Chicarra got off with slightly the best of it, closely followed by Golden Flower and Bearhunter.

El Ghor at odds of two to five is said to have stepped in a hole at the head of the stretch in the last race. Bar Le Duo, probably the best, won the race. The son of Lamplighter, under an excellent ride, won handlly from Inspector Shea, who was the best of others.

The attendance was close to 2000. Twelve books had a good play, Manager Carmody said that he was well pleased with the Monday showing, and would have three additional books on to-day, making a total of fifteen, all of which will be independent.
